upon prices and upon trade, and created such a speci stive movement that a balance was soon placed against us, which required large shipments of specie to liquidate. The san e result will be again realized, if the samecourse is pursued in the importation of specie. Fortunately, the balance of trade-if there is any balance at all-in our favor, is small, and the receipts of specie from Europe are likely to be small. As limited as they will probably be, compared to the amount anticipated, we trust they will be some time coming, that no effect upon our markets will be visible. If we import three millions of dollars, the probability is that we shall keep the whole of it; whereas if we import six millions, the chances are that we should lose nearly or specie of $1,326,649, and in circulation of $322,999 The lowest point in the supply of specie in the vaults of the banks of this city, was probably on the 24th of February last, or soon after, and the reduction in circulation, and contraction in private credits caused by this reduction in bullion, has been partially the cause of the recent stringency in the mo ney market. Within the past few days there has been a very important increase in the supply of specie, and the probability is that an expansion on the part of the banks will be exhibited in the next returns .-The bank reports, as published under the new law, are perfectly useless to the community at large. The value of dry goods entered during th past week for consumption, was $501,396; withdrawn $48,823. The amount of specie in the sub-treasury of this port at the close of business yesterday, was $1.872, showing a reduction during the week of $121,055. The season has so far advanced, that we cannot expect very from customs must of course be small. The sub-treasury is, therefore, in a fair way of being drained. This, with the large amount of money that will be let loose this week by the payments of dividends, cannot but have a favorable influence upon the money market. It is estimated that about a million of dollars will be paid on the 1st of May for the purpose above mentioned. The city government, several banks, and several insurance and railroad companies, pay their regular semiannual dividends on that day.

The interest due on the 1st of May, on the bonds of the Hudson and Berkshire Railroad Company, will be paid on presentation of the coupons at the Mechanics' Several failures have been reported in Boston within the past few days, among the dry goods jobbers. With a single exception, they have not been of much magnitude. As a general thing, the merchants of Boston stand well; but there are many cases where the amount of capital employed has been so limited, compared with the amount of business transacted, that the pressure in the money market recently experienced was too much for such houses to bear up under. The anxiety exhibited by a class of Boston merchants, during the past three or four years, to extend their business into the extreme sections of the country, without sufficient capital to enable them to give the long credits required by that class of customers, has placed their affairs in such a shape that the first very severe pressure in the market caused many of them to suspend. In their efforts to compete with the same class of merchants in this city, they have become bankrupts.

The New England Worsted Manufacturing Company have declared a semi-annual dividend of three per

There is every probability of the amount necessary to insure the completion of the Pennsylvania and Ohio Railread being raised by stock subscriptions. Twentyfive hundred shares have been subscribed, leaving but about fifteen hundred more to be taken, to insure to put the work under contract. This is a very important affair for Philadelphia, and we are pleased to see the line in such a fair way of being completed. This will make the third line from the Atlantic to the West, two of which-the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Pennsylvania and Ohio-connect the Ohio river with the sea coast; and one—the New York and Erie—connects the waters of the Atlantic with those of the Great Western Lakes. Although these works will not come into direct competition with each other, the trade of the West will be divided between them, and for a time they may not prove so productive to the stockholders as is desirable, but to the section of country through which they pass, and the places of termination, they will be of incalculable benefit MEDICAL.

CERTIFICATE FROM THE PRINCIPAL OF THE Fredonia (New York) Seminary.

PREDONIA, July 17th, 1846.

Dr. Seth W. Fowle:—Dear, Sir: From my youth I have been ableet to lung complaints. In February last I took cold; a cough set in, and though slight in the beginning, I made use of the simple remedies which I always kap for that purpose. (These failing, I reserted to others, but lay cough increased in violence, and a pain in the side and right lobe of the lungs was attended with oppressive strictures on the lungs.) During this time I expectorated freely, but the meens raised from the lungs indicated a disease deeply seated. Two or three physicians kindly sent me their medicines, which have been very efficient in curing coughs, but they failed to reach my case, and I began to be somewhat uneasy. My cough was considerably aggravated. A friend advised me to try the Balsam of Wild Cherry, but I told him I had swallowed medicine enough. Well, sir, I coughed out that day and the night following, and the next day my friend urged me again to try. "Dr. Wistar," and at 3P. M. I was willing to try appting, for I coughed constantly. I procured a bottle—draw of II—read the directions—continued takingit from that bottle one week, and when the Balsam was gone, my cough and pains were gone, and I have not coughed since.

Respectfully yours, &c., F. A. REDINGTON. None genuine unless signed I. BUTTS.

INTELLIGENCE BY THE MAILS.

Our Washington Correspondence. WASHICTON, April 28, 1849.

The Last of the Week. "In old Kentuck, in the arternoon,
We sweeps de floor wid a bran new broom,
And arter dat we forms a ring,
And dis is de song dat de brack folks sing—
Clar de kitchen!
Old Vakginny nebba ti-ah!."
Such is the song of the Union. The defeat of Mr. Pendleton, although by a whig—the defeat of Mr. Botts, although by the disaffected whigs of his district, who voted against him, or failed to vote as all, and the probable defeat of several other whigh in districts represented each by a whig in the last Congress, are causes sufficient for Father Ritchie to all, and the probable defeat of several other whigh in districts represented each by a whig in the last Congress, are causes sufficient for Father Ratchie to rub his hands with ardent satisfaction, only restraining his three cheers until the news comes in from the other side of "the Ridge."

It was the proposition of Mr. Polk to place a Lieutenant General over our armies in Mexico, in the person of a civilian, superseding the old soldiers of the national guard, that was most disastrous to the democrats in the elections to the 30th Congress. That cause of distrust has ceased to exist, and the causes of the popular vote to General Taylor have measurably subsided. The contest in Virginia has ceased to be a contest, both over General Taylor and General Cass—between an original proviso man and a Southern slaveholder—and is now an issue on the old platform of the principles by which the whig and democratic parties are distinguished. The popularity of General Taylor may still serve one or two whig members; but generally, it would appear that the people of Virginia are falling back upon the old associations of party allegiance.

As the election appears to be running, and from the prospects in other States to follow, there will be a close division of parties in the House, sufficiently close to prevent any important measures from passing that body of a whig complexion, excepting, perhaps, some slight modifications of the tariff—some immaterial amendments of the sub-Treasury laws, and some millions by means of log rolling—as, for example, you vote for my $10,000 to render Goose Creek navigable for canoes, and I will vote for your harbor; you vote for my $10,000 to render Goose Creek navigable for canoes, and I will vote for your Mississippi appropriation of $200,000. We may expect, also, that Col. Benton's project for a railroad and a turnpike along side of it, free to the world, across the continent to the Pacific, will receive the favorable attention of the next Congress—that the bill of cheap pestages will be passed, a net will be pacific, but firm, explicit, and consistent with the dignity, the interests, the rights, and the treaties of the United States.

The ominous position of things on the continent

With Gen. Cass in the Presidential chair at this juncture of our international affairs, so favorable for picking a quarrel with John Bull, or the Austrians, the Prussians, or the Spaniards, or the Danes, we should conclude that war was "inevitable:" that it would be a duty of the three organs at Washington to "prepare the hearts of the people for war," and a bounden duty of Col. Webb to furbish up his armor, and to rig up his chapeau and epaulettes for a brigadier's commission for the army of Quebec, or the column to be detailed to Cuba or the Mediterranean. With Gen. Taylor at the head of the government, there seems to be a Cuba or the Mediterranean. With Gen. Taylor at the head of the government, there seems to be a most perfect security of peace, however fiercely the waves of revolution and war may lash the nations around us. This security, of itself, is worth millions of money to the commerce of the country, and the domestic occupations of the people; and we feel assured that, to the last exigency, the administration will save the country from war.

It is reported that our friend Jemmy Maher, who has given us—ported in the Herald, a further explanation of the case is not deemed necessary at present, though your reporters will give from day to day an account of the case, as it goes forward.

The weather, which has been rainy during all this week, promises a more copious supply for the beginning of the next.

-California Excitement-Cold Weather-Political Troubles, &c. &c.

We have some further particulars of the late disaster which overtook Colonel Fremont and his daring band of adventurers, on their attempt to cross the mountains of the Del Norte. Our information is derived from a person by the name o Edward Kern, who writes from Taos under date of the 11th of February. It seems that as far as Bent's Fort, the party met with no serious obstacle. At this point they procured, as a guide, the famous Bill Williams, on whose knowledge of the mountain passes of that whose knowledge of the mountain passes of that region Col. Fremont certainly had reason to rely. At a small trading post above Bent's Fort, called Hard Scrabble, they obtained further supplies, and struck off towards the mountains, the depth of snow increasing at every step. Crossing the first range of the Del Norte mountains, they fell upon the waters of the Orphano, and pursued an old wagon road for two days. On leaving this road, the troubles of the party commenced. Williams was now relied on to guide him through a mountain pass leading to the Compadre, but, in this undertaking, he failed, and a worse road, the writer says, he never travelled over. "We went up the cannon," says the writer, "our animals failing, and the snow deepening every step we took, bidding fair, as it subsequently turned out, to defeat our crossing. On the 15th of December, we attempted to cross what we supposed to be the dividing ridge between the St Johns and the waters of the Del Norte, but were driven back by the storm. The next day we returned to it again, and were successful enough to get on the other side to a small clump of pages. We unpacked our animals on a bare peint, and drove them to the hill top, in hopes of their finding a fufficiency of food for a day, as the snow had drifted from it in places. From this hill they never came again; the storm continuing, and having no shelter, they perished. Camp then commenced making portages, inhopes of reaching the river. This, you may suppose, was a severe undertaking in the cold, and no positive hopes ahead of reaching any place, even should we have been able to get out our effects. By hard labor we worked our way gradually down. On the 26th, King was sent ahead with Old Bill to Abaque, to bring us relief, while we were to continue down. On the region Col. Fremont certainly had reason to rely.
